Rents, Situations, Real Estate, Auction Sales, AND OTHER Classified Advertisements.

SITUATIONS WANTED—FREE.

Are you in need of work? If so, you are at liberty to use these columns for assistance in that direction. While this notice appears in the State Journal, it will be published free on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, for Topeka or Kansas people, all notices of "Situations Wanted," not to exceed five lines, or thirty-five words in length, provided that all advertisements of that nature are handed in previous to 10 o'clock Saturday morning; also on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday all advertising of this class handed in by 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

No advertisements of this nature to be started except on Saturdays and Wednesdays. No obligation is incurred on the part of the advertiser. No worthy and needy man or woman need hesitate to take advantage of this offer. No one in business or employment is expected to take advantage of it, but all others are invited to avail themselves freely.

The Topeka State Journal guarantees every day it is printed, to give a local circulation by far more than any other daily combined. This makes this paper the cheapest, as well as the best, of its kind in the medium in Topeka, the classified advertisements below costing but or 20 cents a line for a week; 50 cents by the month.

Average circulation for first six months of 1897.

PROPOSALS.

(First published in the Topeka State Journal November 18, 1897.)
SEALED PROPOSALS will be received by the board of trustees of the state charitable institutions at Kansas city, Mo., at 10 o'clock noon, Wednesday, December 15, 1897, for a ward building adjacent to the asylum for idiotic and imbecile youth, located at Winfield, Kansas.

This work is authorized under sections 2 and 3 of chapter 23 of the session laws of 1897. Bids will be considered for the building as revised completely, except heating, and also as revised, but with the elimination of the west wing.

Plans of the building may be seen on and after November 20th at the asylum at Winfield, Kansas; at the office of T. H. Leach, state house architect, Topeka, Kansas; and at the office of William F. Rose, architect, Kansas City.

A certified check equal to 5 per cent of the amount of the bid must accompany each estimate, the same to be made payable to P. H. Dolan, treasurer of the board.

Blank proposals will be furnished to those requesting them.

The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids. The provisions of the eight hour law (chapter 114 of the session laws of 1897) must be complied with.

Proposals should be sealed and addressed to W. L. Brown, president of the board of trustees, Topeka, Kansas, and marked plainly on the outside, "Proposal for Public Works capacity." All bids must be paid to R. J. Groves, Secretary.

FUEL AND FEED.

VEN—Well, then, lead on.
Bik—Here is a fair road, where be no street car lines nor flints. Look you, there is a small dog. I will overrun it.

VEN—Cleverly done, o' my word! You struck him shrewdly. How he yelped.
Bik—That is naught. Hold back, and I will make yonder dame swerve aside into a mud heap. There, did I not startle her finely?

VEN—In good sooth you did. She hath venomed my leg above the ankle and dropped her basket of eggs to boot.

Bik—Confess, now, that this is pretty sport. But I will show you something still more pleasant. Here is an old gentleman reading his paper in the middle of the road. He will not see me coming. Did I not bowl him over cleanly?

VEN—Aye, you say rightly. His profanity diverted me mightily. But, sir, do not this sort of thing injure the machine! Bik—Doubtless, but I care not. It is only one that I have hired. Tomorrow I shall get one from a different merchant.

VEN—Come, friend, why go you so slowly? See, there is a covey of children coming out of school. Knock me down a brace.

Bik—Nay, my master, this is the parish of Reigate, in the which perverse and ignorant magistrates do malignantly oppress us poor ecclesiastics.

VEN—You are jesting!
Bik—I would I were! Believe me, sir, if I killed even one of those brats in this pestilent place, I should have to pay a fine of several guineas.

VEN—If that be so, I'll none of your barking. I care not to have my sport curtailed by every ill conditioned jack in office. Good day to you, master, and a safe journey.—Pick Me Up.

THE COMPLEAT SCORCHER.

With Due Apologies to the Compleat Angler of Isaac Walton.

Bikater—Well met, brother. I have long wished to convert you to the entertaining art of barking.

Venator—Nay, but I like it not. Give me a good horse, such as I now ride, that crooks not your back nor engenders humors of the joints. Besides, your barking is a tame sport.

Bik—Believe me, friend, it is nothing of the sort. Come you with me a few miles, and I will show you some pleasant pranks. I warrant you.

Ven—Well, then, lead on.
Bik—Here is a fair road, where be no street car lines nor flints. Look you, there is a small dog. I will overrun it.

A Paradox.

Ever since Columbus discovered this North America, with New Jersey and Squaw Creek included, the sun has been moving from Squaw Creek point around to Seven Feet inlet. Our grandfathers saw it, our fathers saw it, and if we hadn't seen it then we must be blind. She's moved every day of her life, and the sixth hasn't had nothing to do with it, but along comes a gal from Philadelphia that don't know an oyster bed from a jib topsail and says the sun has bin standin' still all this time. I was purty high knocked out when she declared in the fatness of the air, but this thing finishes me. I can't low my son Jonas to 'tend that skule no more. With sich teachin's as that he wouldn't know nuff to bait a fishhook next year.
